

Types of Banyaneer services and how they relate to the sequencing of your project.

Remarks

1. The monitoring skills training is useful at any stage of the project. However, it is best suited at the start of a project. It includes the formulation of a Monitoring & Evaluation Plan.
2. This baseline survey training can be provided as a 'stand-alone' package, but is most useful in combination with an actual baseline survey.
3. The resilience in practice training is useful at any phase of the project and can include participants related to various projects. It is most useful however before or during the project start-up.
4. The behaviour change training is most effective in the initial phase of a project.
5. The exit strategy training targets project that are 12 - 18 months from conclusion, allowing the enactment of the resulting strategy.
